

Fake Mail

I like to give people fake mail. Like this one time, I wrote my grandmother a letter where I said I really appreciated all the things she had done for me, and I was looking forward to seeing her and the rest of the family for the holidays. She sent a reply and asked if I would rather have chicken or pork steak for our holiday dinner. So she totally bought it.

If people only knew what an asshole I really was, they'd be pissed.
