

Laughter Police

Ryan Dickherber

Jan. 14, 2008

My friends and I were enjoying a cool evening on the porch, when the laughter police arrived. They began harassing us about our serious expressions and threatening us with arrest if we didn't crack a smile. Then one of them tripped on a branch and landed face first in the mud.

We had to laugh.