

Questioner

Ryan Dickherber

Jan. 21, 2008

I was giving a presentation on my life scripts, when a member of the audience asked what language I used to program my morning routine.

“Physics,” I said. “What else would I use, psychology?”

I laughed at my own joke for several minutes, but it turned out the questioner was a psychologist. They made me apologize before I could continue.